

Stories from the Field : Mozambique

At our recent Mozambique Eye Camp, we performed a total of 103 surgeries including on a 98 years old patient. However, our most memorable patient was a baby girl who just turned one named Zefa. Especially in Africa, there are so many children who are born with congenital cataracts, and there are many reasons for this, but not only children but also people in their 20s and 30s who aren't treated cannot go to school and lead normal lives.

Recently, as the health and medical environment improves in Africa and the population increases rapidly, there are many countries where about half of the total population are children. But in many places in Africa, there is less than one Ophthalmologist for one million people, and virtually no pediatric Ophthalmologists.

Vision Care is working to train local pediatric surgery teams and doctors but we still have a long way to go. Our hope is to transform lives and give joy to their families - in order to make a brighter world.
